

Lai Hsiang-Yin

Born in 1969 in the city of Tainan in Taiwan, Lai Hsiang-Yin currently lives in Tam Shui District in Taipei. She received her education from Taiwan University and Tokyo University. She has worked in bookstores and the Museum of Taiwan Literature. She has won some literary awards which include Uitas Award for new novelists, Taiwan Literature Prize, Wu Cho-liu Literary Award, and has published several collections of short stories: Interpreter (1995), Scenes in the Fog (1998), Island (2000), a collection of essays Prehistoric Life (2007), and a novel Thereafter (2012). She also edited Diaries of Qiu Miaojin.